CANNED SERMONS?

Well, I suppose you could use Concordia Pulpit 1970 as canned sermons. But it's not really what we have in mind.

We think you could use these 76 sermons as idea-starters, as sources of illustrations, as sparks to set off your own thinking.

Or maybe just to see how somebody else does it (people like Martin Franzmann, Richard Caemmerer, Paul W. F. Harms, John Baumgaertner, or Dean Lueking).

60 of these sermons are arranged for the church year and based on Luther's Small Catechism and selected Scripture texts.

There are 6 sermons based on the Mission Affirmations adopted at the 1965 convention of the LCMS.

With a look to the current scene, there are special sermons on art and the Christian, sex and sexuality, on urban problems and campus unrest.

So, if you want to "feed your creativity" — try Concordia Pulpit 1970.

In red cloth binding, at $7.50.

Order No. 15U1970

Concordia's 1970 Lenten volume

JESUS, WHY?

by Richard R. Caemmerer

Jesus, Why? is a volume on preaching in Lent, at a time when the value of Lent — and even of preaching itself — is being questioned. In the opening essay Dr. Caemmerer reaffirms the value of Biblical preaching, discusses the church year as a framework for preaching, and specifically suggests how the midweek services and the Sundays in Lent may be used for an effective presentation of the Gospel. He shows how discussion, audiovisual presentations, and chancel drama can be used to support the preaching message.

The nine sermons in this book (8 for Lent and 1 for Easter) are only half as long as the usual Sunday morning sermon — long enough, Dr. Caemmerer believes, for those who listen at the end of a working day. There is a strong penitential note in these sermons but the central focus is always on the suffering, death, and resurrection of Jesus Christ. Order No. 12U2319, Paper, $1.95

Richard R. Caemmerer, professor of homiletics at Concordia Seminary, St. Louis, is well-known as a preacher, teacher, and writer. Among his previous books are The Church in the World, Feeding and Leading, God's Great Plan for You, Christ Builds His Church, Church and Ministry in Transition (with E. L. Lueker), and Earth with Heaven. He is the editor of Come, Immanuel, sermons for Advent, Christmas, and Epiphany.
